Whereas The Back of the Napkin introduces the core concepts of the visual problem-solving (or whatever-solving) process, Unfolding the Napkin develops and extends the same concepts to wider, deeper , and more valuable applications. Yes, Dan Roam really does take a "hands-on" approach...and the hands belong to his reader. Bravo!

is better thought out, serves more as a method, and contains more visual examples – but it still rehashes pretty much the same material as the first book in order to make its point, so reading both books was redundant in my opinion.
